Let There Be Light (2017 film) - Wikipedia

God's power and creativity were shown during the creation. When He said, "Let there be light" (Genesis 1:3), He created light to separate from the darkness, and established a spiritual metaphor for His goodness and power and grace. The verb in the Hebrew language here for "let" is yehi, translated to fiat lux in Latin. It is less about allowing something to happen, like let our neighbor in the door, and more like a command: "Light, exist!"

What does 'Let there be light' mean as it relates to ...

The phrase let there be light is a translation of the Hebrew phrase yehi ?or, which was translated " fiat lux " in Latin. A literal translation would be a command, something like "Light, exist." God is speaking into the void and commanding light to come into being.
